

Handel Hundred

The Handel Hundred is a group set up to support the Hallelujah Project: Making Handel's House Happen.

Handel lived at 25 Brook Street in Mayfair for 36 years and wrote many of his masterpieces here. But only the top half of the house is currently open to visitors.

The Hallelujah Project will complete this important little jewel of our musical heritage for future generations to enjoy.

House

The Handel Hundred is a group of people who each generously donate £5000 or more to the Hallelujah Project (either in a lump sum, or in instalments to be paid between now and 2022).

Members of the Handel Hundred will enjoy the following benefits:

- Acknowledgement in perpetuity on a special Handel Hundred Donor Board to be displayed at the house
- Full use of the exclusive Hundred Room
- Free general admission to the house, year-round, for themselves and their guests
- Special priority booking for all concerts and events at Handel House
- Champagne receptions at the house for members and their guests before special 'Hundred' concerts, together with opportunities to meet the musicians and performers
- Invitations to exclusive jaunts and events arranged specially for the Handel Hundred
- Opportunities to meet the Director to discuss the development of the project and share their views

The Hundred Room

This pretty, quirky room with its original 18th-century panelling and shutters offers a quiet oasis just off Bond Street. As well as a little library of music books and magazines, the room has tea and coffee making facilities and a fridge stocked with wine and beer to which guests can help themselves. There is also a laptop computer with internet connection and a printer for members to use while visiting.

Handel Hundred members can drop in, bringing as many guests as they choose, any time between 11am and 5pm Monday to Saturday to relax and enjoy feeling part of life behind the scenes at Handel House. They can also book the Hundred Room for private meetings, free of charge, between 9.30am and 11am any weekday (subject to availability).
